A Free Workshop for Job Seekers

Are you an adult ESL student ready to use your new language skills to find a job? Are you a literacy tutor or a conversation group leader who wants to help students gain new employment skills and increase their marketability?

This new free workshop, cosponsored by the Greater Raritan Workforce Development Board and Literacy Volunteers of Somerset County, aims to help attendees find better-paying jobs.

You will learn:

- How do you find job openings?
- How can you best pursue them?
- What must you do to land a job?

The workshop will include a presentation on regional employment resources and a discussion where job-seeker coach John Hadley will teach you skills and strategies his clients use to land the job and pay they deserve.

There is no cost to attend. Light refreshments will be served, and all are welcomed.
